

LIFESTYLE GARDENING

LES HODGE

Les Hodge has worked for the Launceston City Council for 25 years in most of the parks in the city, and is now The City Gardener. He also contributes to the local newspaper Saturday's Edition of the Examiner as the garden columnist.

Les and his wife have been happily married for 40 years and have 3 sons and 4 grandchildren who are the absolute delight of their lives. Les's interests include breeding and exhibiting fowl and fancy pigeons, growing lilliums, carriage driving with their Welsh Ponies, reading and taking care of the Les's old mate, a Cavalier Spaniel dog.

Les is a frequent speaker on gardens and gardening at many local organisations.
